

GOUT BA ITO?

GOUT AWARENESS MONTH LAY FORUM

by Norwin Philip L. Bation

The event wrapped up with an engaging question-and-answer session, allowing participants to interact directly with the fellows and gain a deeper insights into gout and its complexities.

The University of Santo Tomas Hospital (USTH) Section of Rheumatology conducted a lay forum on gout. The event was intended to provide patients, caregivers, and USTH staff with insights into the significant ways the disease influences the lives of patients and their families.

The event was held on June 26, 2024, at the Ambulatory Care Services (ACS) of USTH. Dr. Jan Mark Antenor, a rheumatology fellow, gave an in-depth lecture on gout, its causes or triggers, treatment, and prevention. He also shed light on various misconceptions about gout that discourage patients from being proactive in addressing their condition.
